

Inauguration of the dedicated to students and youth library section was done in an innovative way. This contains a smart board, a large reading hall of about 2000 sq. ft., two sets of computers connected with internet and online libraries which are free of cost.

The students were asked to write 40 to 50 lines on the book they have read. More than 200 students participated. There was a painting of a tree which did not have leaves. The students, parents, teachers, volunteers, trustees and staff of the library put their thumb with colours on the painting as the leaves. The names of those having their thumb in the painting are to be written below that picture which is going to be put as a wall-frame.

Those who attended registered their names, phone numbers and birth dates in the special entry register kept on the occasion. On their birth date the library will send a reminder letter wishing for the birthday. That person will present a new book to the library. The library is going to put a selfie point which will read- "I read this book. Have you?" and will take a picture and library will present that picture to that person as a birthday card and will post the same in social handles and media for others to encourage.
